F.O. Mitchell and Bros. Inc.

Office

Perryman, Md.

Capsule-Summary

The canning industry was once a major aspect in the economic life of Harford County. This building is the office of one of the last remaining canning firms active in the County. It is located in the center of the small rural village of Perryman, a settlement surrounded by the Aberdeen Proving Grounds and agricultural fields. Despite its small size and simplicity, the building is quite stylish with its hipped roof and dark shingles.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This office building is located at 427 Michaelsville Road, on the northeast side of the street, north of the intersection with Railroad Avenue. It is a one story frame structure with a rock face concrete block foundation and a hipped roof. It is three bays wide, with a center entrance on the south elevation that fronts Railroad Avenue. The building is 5 bays long, and has hipped roof porches sheltering the south and north entrances. These porches are supported by tapered square columns. Windows are 6/1 and the exterior is clad in dark cedar shingles. The roof is of modern materials, and the roof rafters are exposed and finished with a plumb cut. There is a brick chimney in the northwest corner that vents a fireplace in the President's office.

The interior is divided into a number of office spaces. The floors are wooden planks, and the walls are finished with 2" grooved planking. The interior is finished with dark stain.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This building is the office of F.O. Mitchell and Bothers, Inc., the largest canning firm still operating in Harford County. Canning was once a vital part of the economy in the county up through the 1920's. By that time, the larger businesses had made small canning operations unprofitable, and the canning factories relocated to the eastern shore where they still operate today. The history of the canning industry in Harford County is a ripe research topic--aside from statistics in old agricultural books, there is no written history of this once thriving local industry that employed not only County residents, but laborers from Baltimore City as well.

Like the Perryman Post Office (HA-1658) across the street, this office building is quite stylish for its place and time. A rural village like Perryman is hardly a place where one would look to see architectural innovation, but there is no denying that with its dark shingles, tapered columns and exposed rafters that the Mitchell office has a slight flavor of "California Mission" about it. In any case, it certainly rejects the applied decoration of the late 19th century, for something more subtle and less ostentatious.
